Football 1918

THE football season this year was on the whole very successful, although many obstacles had to be overcome. The enforced vacation and the consequent football inactivity, due to the influenza epidemic, deprived the team of a good deal of much needed practice during the first of the season. Then again, the ineligibility of Captain "Johnny" Malloy was another setback to the team. However, these minor handicaps were more than offset by the splendid coaching of Leander MacDonald, who not only showed the boys how to do it by talking, but even gave the team a little strong opposition for practice and coaching purposes.

Of the two veterans, Louis Tracy and Kozlowsky, the latter was elected to lead the Cambridge High and Latin eleven. Under his able leadership a defeat was administered to Rindge, from which we hope it will not recover until the next dose is given by the 1919 team, which, no doubt, will be a more concentrated solution of that disagreeable medicine known as defeat. For the benefit of those who have not already heard, the score was 14–6, the touchdowns being made by William Sayward, the husky full-back, and by the speedy quarterback, I. Zarakov.

LEANDER MacDONALD

The Triangular League championship, however, was lost to Newton, who proved to have an exceptionally fast and powerful team. Added to this was the fact that fate played against us; the team was off form almost to a man.

The Everett game was probably the most exciting game, in that it was very close, although connoisseurs had predicted a severe defeat for the Cambridge team. The team started off with a snap, by a long forward that was most excellently executed by Curry. After that it was, for the most part, steady plugging up and down the field, until Everett was finally able to score in the last quarter. It is believed by many that the game was lost because O'Connor was able to play only in the last quarter, having taken a street car that conveyed him to Malden instead of Everett. On the other hand, a false interpretation is placed upon this by many, who whisper that the score was made in the last quarter.

The Malden game was a new experience for our team, because we had been used to the solid footing of Russell Field. Consequently, when the game was staged in a 'used to be cow-pasture,' as an urchin informed me, it was no wonder that we met with a slight reverse, since Malden were playing in their native element and were used to manoeuvring in the mud. Our team, however, had not reached a highly efficient point in taking turns, Charlie Chaplin fashion, till after the game was over. The extraordinary slipperyness of Malden mud was most exasperating and proved disastrous, as was shown by the score 6–0.

As for the rest of the games, they were straight football, marked by hard, clean, playing on the part of both sides.

Next year's team is to be congratulated on having for its captain such an able man as William Sayward, more commonly known as just Bill. He played a good, clean, hard game throughout the past season, and will no doubt bring added distinction to himself and the team in the year to come.

HOCKEY

IN the early part of the hockey season, the Boston Arena burned down; so for a while it was rumored that there would be no hockey team. These unbelievers were, however, forgetting our peppy Coach MacDonald, and our able captain, Garrity. In a short time, with the financial assistance of the city, a rink was prepared at Russell Field, on which the players got most of their practice, which brought them out so successfully at the end of the season.

When the candidates were first called out, from the seven veterans that were expected back in the school, only two appeared, accompanied by the usual crowd of inexperienced men. Coach MacDonald at once started the stone rolling and had a very respectable looking team whipped into shape for the first game, which was played in New Hampshire against the formidable Exeter seven. Due to poor ice and lack of practice our team was defeated 2–0.

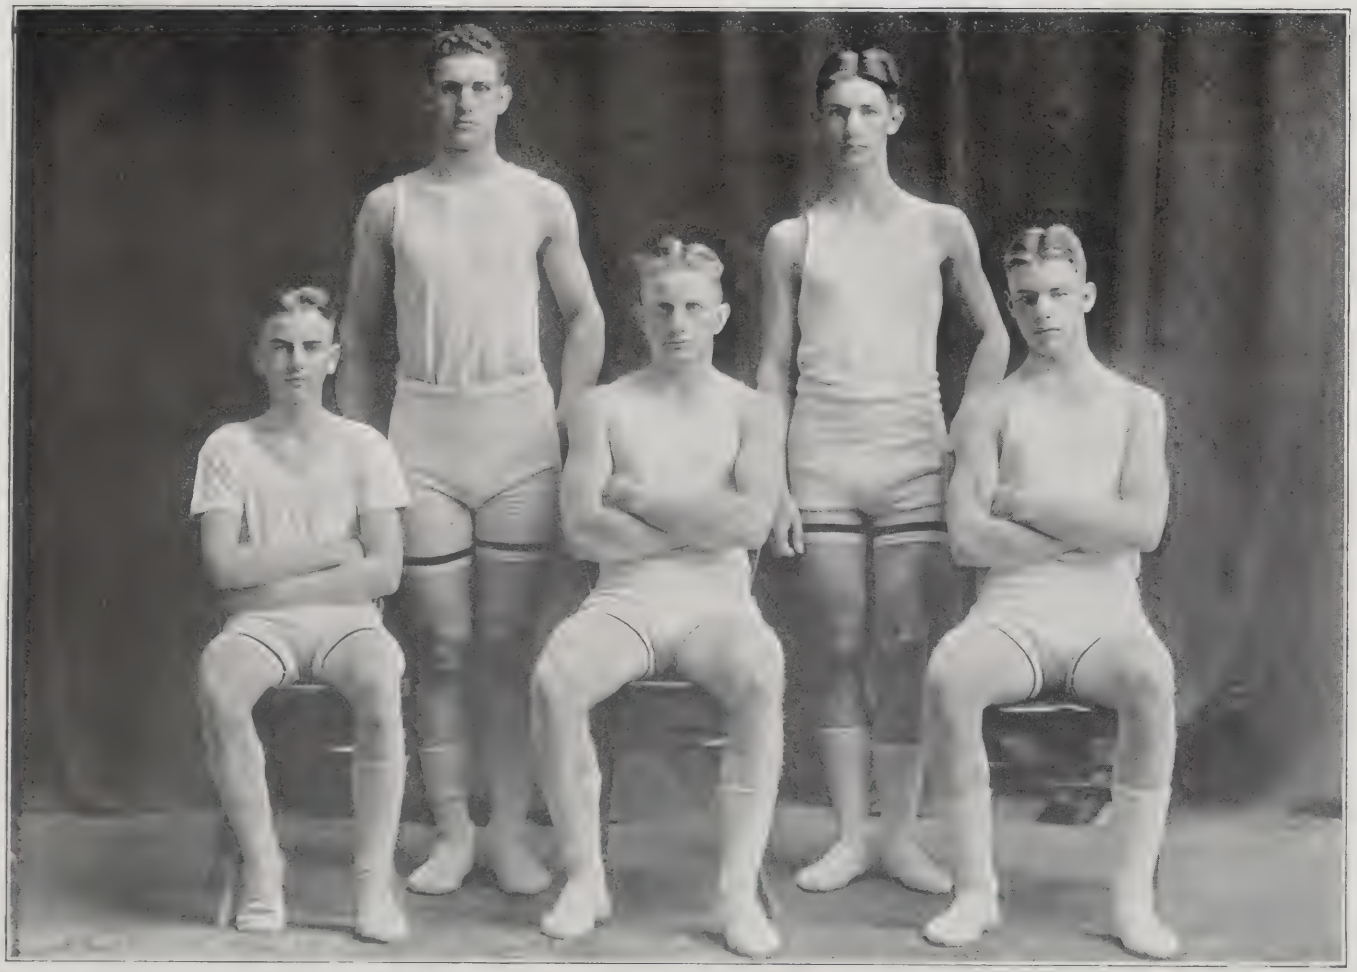
The next game showed what C. H. L. S. could really accomplish, all conditions being favorable. Newton was sent home with a 4–2 defeat. Not only was this a Triangular League game, but it is the first time in fifteen years that we have registered a victory against this team. By this time our men had reached their best form. The C. H. L. S. fighting spirit was right there, and the superb team work was a predominant feature in the game played by our team.

Following this, at the Rindge game, a 1–0 defeat for Rindge Technical proved a rather bitter pill for our rivals to swallow. Rindge played a strong game, but was outclassed entirely by the fast C. H. L. S. team.

Arlington, Melrose, and Boston Latin also met defeat at our hands to the tune of 1–0, 3–0, and 14–0, respectively. In these games Captain Garrity, Curry, and O'Connor were the shining lights and distinguished themselves both in passing and in chasing the puck.

The game with St. Marks was probably the most spectacular contest of the year. It resulted in a 2–2 overtime tie. Both sides displayed excellent team work throughout the game.

Thus the season came to a close with six victories, five defeats and one tie. Considering it all in all, the season was most successful. The 1920 team will have as its leader Captian-elect Zarakov, who played a good steady game all year. Since he will have a number of this year's veterans back, we all hope that he may have an exceedingly suc cessful season next winter.



1919 CREW

R. Estabrook H. Stevens

W. Manning R. Heizer P. Sayward

CREW candidates were called out this year during the last few days in February. A squad answered the call for men, which, if it was not as heavy as was desirable, made up in numbers and in corps d'esprit for this lack. When the gymnasium was not used by the girls, the crew men went through various setting up exercises and completed the day with a run around the block. This preliminary work put all the candidates in trim for the hard rowing on the river and reduced them to a minimum weight. Saturdays were the only time when the machines at Harvard could be used because of the exceedingly large squad which Coach Haynes had to handle.

The second stage in crew affairs was reached on the first of April, when the crew squad reported at the B. A. A. boat-house. First and second crews were made up according to the weight and the experience of the candidates, and these crews have been rowing all through the season with comparatively few changes. The crew was at once taken in charge by the veteran cox of the 1918 championship crew, William Manning, and as a result, it has been making a very creditable showing both in oarsmanship and team work. The second crew has also been doing splendid work, and has recently acquired a new stroke in the form of Murphy, a veteran of the Twenty-Sixth Division. Since he rowed on the first crew before leaving for France, a great deal is expected of him.

On the 14th of May, we met Browne and Nichols on the half mile course. There was some discussion as to the length of this race, and as a result Rindge dropped out, leaving Browne and Nichols and Cambridge High and Latin School to contest for the championship of Cambridge. We lost the race on account of an exceptionally poor start.

It is needless to say that the big event of the crew season is the B.I.R.A. regatta, and to this end all the efforts of both the first and second crews are directed. Of course all the other races are considered only as preparatory to the big event. In the estimation of Coach Manning, Cambridge Latin has a good crew and ought to make a creditable showing in the final supreme effort. At present we have one leg on the B. F. Keith trophy, and, if we are successful this year and next, the bronze statue will become the property of the school.

BASEBALL in Cambridge High and Latin School received a big boost this year because of our entrance to the Suburban League. Heretofore the Triangular League games have been the chief features of each season. Now, however, a great many more games will be played with teams that are counted among the schoolboy nines.

The baseball candidates were called out by Captain O'Connor during the first few weeks of March. The battery men had daily practice in the gymnasium until the condition of Russell Field was such as would permit out-door practice. An unfortunate, though I fear rather common incident, must here be mentioned: namely, that two of the four veterans were ineligible on account of academic difficulties. As a result the team was composed of practically inexperienced men. However, under the able direction of Coach MacDonald and Captain O'Connor, a team was whipped into shape that had all the markings of an excellent nine.

This prediction was justified by a creditable victory over Somerville High School as the opening event of the season. In this game some excellent team work was displayed which contributed greatly to the victory of our men. After this encouraging beginning, sad as it may seem, there was an inexplicable slump in the playing, and five successive defeats were forced upon us at the hands of various teams whose playing was not as extraordinary as might be expected. Our men, however, were able to keep the score low in every game by that splendid dogged hang on spirit characteristic of every team representing Cambridge High and Latin School in the schoolboy world.

Our encounter with Malden proved more successful than the five games directly preceding. The team, playing true to form, won a brilliant victory. At present, although a greater percentage of the games have been lost, there is yet hope that our men will finish high up in the league, as there are on an average two games to be played with each school. O'Connor, the captain, deserves a great deal of credit for the splendid leadership displayed throughout the season. Coach MacDonald also has the thanks and hearty appreciation of the whole school, not only for his untiring efforts on the athletic field but also for the scholastic efforts of his protégés, who are not quite as speedy in following the flowery path to knowledge as in stealing bases.

Up to the present, the games that have been played are as follows:

1st Cambridge 3, Somerville 2
1st Cambridge 4, Brookline 6
2nd Cambridge 5, Brookline 3
Cambridge 1, Everett 3
2nd Cambridge 1, Somerville 5
Cambridge 4, Newton 10
1st Cambridge 6, Rindge 7
Cambridge 9, Malden 4
Cambridge 3, Medford 5
2nd Cambridge 4, Rindge 3
3rd Cambridge 18, Rindge 12

THE Girl's Athletic Association, in common with all other school activities, was delayed in starting by the closing of schools during the influenza epidemic in October. Just as affairs were settling down, Christmas with its extended vacation prevented the beginning of the activities of the organization still more.

Behind all this delay was the realization that the constitution had been found inadequate in a critical situation. Suggestions for changes were many and useless. Everyone was working at cross-purposes; no one suggested a workable plan. Finally, out of the turmoil came the solution,— three amendments to the constitution. It will be realized by anyone who knew the conditions, that these amendments clear up the trouble. The first has to do with the payment of dues, and provides that, in case of extended vacation or unusual closing of schools, the period for payment of dues may be extended by four-fifths vote of the Executive Committee. The second amendment states that the two girls receiving the highest number of votes by ballot for president, vice-president, and secretary shall be candidates for election. This rule holds for the highest seven in votes cast for the Executive Committee. The third provides that nominations for chief officers shall be held before the end of the second week in May with elections following within a week. Nominations for the Executive Committee shall follow within a week of election of officers. The time of nominations and elections may be changed by four-fifths vote of the executive committee in case of unusual closing of schools. These amendments were voted on and passed by a meeting of the association, on March 12, 1919.

The entertainment usually held in the Fall for the new members of the association, was held on April 26th, and brought forth a variety of costumes not confined between the years 1850 and 1950. The program carried out in the hall was received with amusement by the audience, as might be expected.

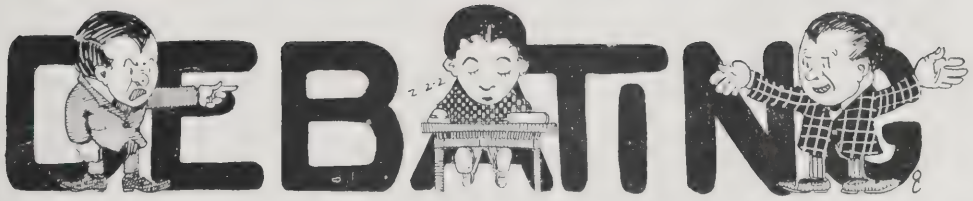
At the Girl Dance, on May 8, over two hundred girls were present, among whom were several members who graduated a year or so ago. The affair was a success socially and financially.

The Boy Dance, on May 23, was also a great success.

DEBATING TEAM

G. McLaughlin H. Goodwin H. Gerould E. Sawin

M. Kramer Mr. Campbell F. LaCauza



THE school year has been a war year in debating as well as in everything else. Not until the year was well advanced did we do anything at all. Then in April we held our fifth annual Prize Debate. Five years ago Mr. Harold C. Durrell presented a cup to the school; and every year since the names of the winning team have been engraved upon the cup. The debating treasury has furnished cups as individual prizes for the winners. This year a close debate resulted on the question "That Mayor Peters' plan for a greater Boston should be adopted." The negative team was returned the winner. Maurice Kramer '19 handled the rebuttal for the winners; Isaac Freedman '19 and George A. McLaughlin '22 were his associates. On the other side were Frank E. LaCauza '19, Edward A. Sawin '21, and Harry V. Goodwin '21. The losers, with Goodwin giving the rebuttal, had a good case and beat their opponents in delivery.

On May 9th we held a dual debate with Quincy High, and we were compelled to share honors. The negative teams won on the question, "That the immigration of unskilled labor to the United States should be prohibited for a period of four years." Our negative team — Maurice Kramer '19, Frank E. LaCauza '19, and Harry V. Goodwin '21 — had considerable power in delivery and presented an excellent case. Kramer presented a clear, forcible rebuttal. The team won a close debate on its merits. Our affirmative team, arguing in the enemy's country, did themselves great credit. Dick Gerould's rebuttal was enough to give him the decision, and undoubtedly another group of judges would have voted for the affirmative. The team besides Richard Gerould '19 consisted of Edward A. Sawin '21, and George A. McLaughlin '22. We got more than an even break in the double encounter inasmuch as Goodwin was pronounced the best speaker in the one debate and McLaughlin in the other.

During the last seven years we have won nine debates and lost six. The School has turned out three debaters of the first class. Edward Gay '15 (Harvard '19) was one of the most remarkable. He appeared for the school in two debates, both victories; and in each he handled the rebuttal. Keenly he followed his opponent's case; with persuasion he argued his own. As student of the question under discussion, as speaker, as persuader, he has never been surpassed in Latin School debating. "Tang" Thurston '17 (Harvard '21) has represented Latin School in more debates than any other individual. Counting the Sophomore debate against Rindge, he appeared in seven debates, five of them victories, a record that probably will always stand. Thurston G. Mirick '18 took part in only one debate; but his work in that stamps him as one of the keenest and best debaters that has ever appeared on our platform. In the Lexington debate of 1917, he broke the dead lock of the opening speeches with a wonderfully keenly analytic rebuttal which earned for us the instant, unanimous approval of the judges. A great future in debating, as well as in other school activities, lay before Mirick; but he met accidental death during the Christmas vacation of 1918.

Jacob Arthur Winthrop
Business Manager

AT the beginning of its thirty-third season, the Cambridge Review was in a strange predicament. There was no faculty advisor; there was no money; and, furthermore, the staff, with the exception of the business manager, was entirely inexperienced. The first of these difficulties had necessarily to be remedied immediately; so Miss Ricker was chosen for faculty advisor, a position which she filled very creditably until Mr. Campbell was able to resume his place at school. Winthrop, the business manager, proved to have exceptional ability for obtaining advertisements, and the school patriotically furnished about nine hundred subscriptions;—thus the treasury was filled.

Before the work on the first issue could be begun, the influenza epidemic forced the schools to close; therefore, the first number did not come out until Christmas. The staff had not, however, wasted their time during the delay; for the Christmas number proved to be one of the best in the history of the magazine. In it appeared two new departments,—"News from the Front" and "Parlez-vous Français?", the first containing the doings of the C. H. L. S. boys in the service, and the second, original French composition. Both were successful and were continued throughout the year. There was begun in this issue a serial story, "Yvonne," in four parts, one to be written by the freshmen, one by the sophomores, one by the juniors, and one by the seniors. This novel scheme was as successful as could be expected.

The remaining issues, while some did not come up to standard of the Christmas number, were all good. In fact, the ability of the literary staff this year cannot be questioned.

On the whole, the year has been extremely successful, although there have been several changes in the staff, due either to sickness or to disqualification. The poorest part of the Review has been the "Class Notes," but even this is better than the class notes department of some other school papers.

PINAFORE CAST

H. Massé G. Harvey P. Wilkins
R. Dorr O. Payne V. Bates T. Wilcox E. Hamilton

THE great achievement of the musical clubs this year was the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, H. M. S. Pinafore, at Brattle Hall, May 16.

The cast was as follows: —

Ralph Rackstraw	Oliver Payne '19
Josephine Corcoran	Thelma Wilcox '19
Dead Eye	Herbert Massé '19
Captain Corcoran	Gordon Harvey '20
Sir Joseph Porter	Lyle Ring '18
Boatswain	Paul Wilkins '18
Boatswain's Mate	Wesley Nichols '19
Buttercup	Vedna Bate '20
Hebe	Evelyn Hamilton

In the chorus there were about thirty-five girls and about forty boys. The entire cast deserves much credit for its faithfulness and diligence, and the success of the opera is a just reward for the time they so cheerfully gave for the rehearsals. With Oliver Payne and Thelma Wilcox singing the leading roles, the opera could not help being a great success.

The Glee Club and Choir have been organized but a short time and are still more or less on probation. After this year, however, these clubs will be undeniably established organizations. To the class of nineteen nineteen belongs the honor of firmly establishing the Boys' Glee Club and Choir, particularly the Boys' Glee Club, in the school. We say the honor belongs to the class of nineteen nineteen for about fifty percent of the numbers of the clubs are Seniors.

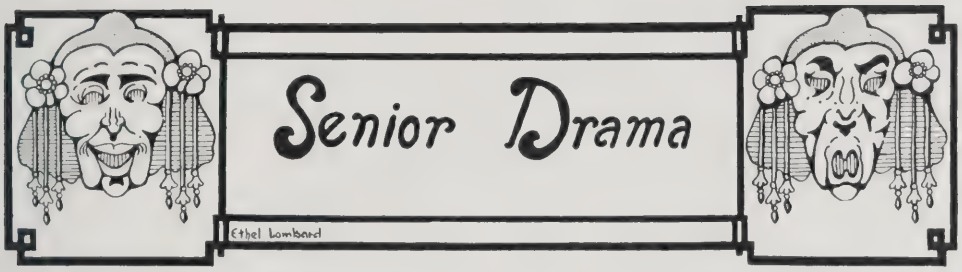
The orchestra has likewise had considerable success this year. It, also, is composed chiefly of seniors. It has played at the graduation of the Evening High School, at the Senior Drama, and at the Durrell Prize Cup Debate. On every occasion, it has afforded its audience much enjoyment.

SENIOR DRAMA CAST AND COMMITTEE

M. Duchin A. Bliss D. Michael C. White

A. Welch Miss Hartigan F. Scully C. Touchette

H. Moran R. Gerould B. Nolen



ONE of the things to which the Class of 1919 will always look back with pride as a production worthy of the school and of itself is the Senior Drama. It was a complete success, due to the great effort made by Miss Hartigan, coupled with the dramatic ability of the cast and the cooperation of the drama committee. A large crowd turned out for the performance, thus making A Rose O' Plymouth Town an entirely financial success as well.

The dramatic committee, with Arthur Bliss as chairman, consisted of Richard Gerould, Barbara Nolen, and Florence Scully. Each of the members showed himself very worthy of the position given him.

The cast of A Rose O' Plymouth Town proved to have been well chosen. Every member had very evident histrionic ability, a fine conception of the part which he was to play, and an enthusiasm which ensured success. Charles Touchette as the hero, Garrett Foster, could not have had better success in depicting the character which he played — a character which had many sides; one light and carefree, another of a more serious sort. Rose de la Noye, played by Florence Scully, was a very sweet heroine, winsome, impulsive, and full of changing moods. As a contrast, the demure little Miriam Chillingsley made a pretty picture as a typical New England maiden. She and her more bashful lover, Phillipe, caused many a smile with their apparent artlessness. These last two parts were played by Helen Moran and Richard Gerould, both of whom did splendid work in their portrayal of character. Charles White, as "Jawn" Margeson, made a fine villain, showing much skill in keeping his part throughout the entire play. The Pilgrim couple, Miles Standish and his wife Barbara, introduced a real spirit of the times in which the scene of the play is laid. They were typical Pilgrims, the kind of persons which one would think might have come over in the Mayflower. These parts were taken by Maurice Duchin and Agnes Welch. And Aunt Resolute — Dorothea Michael — with her "new sensation" which she found so disastrously, put the finishing touch of humor into the whole production.

Altogether, the performance is one for which Miss Hartigan must be warmly congratulated; for it was above all due to her great painstaking and training that the several actors were able to give such a splendid performance as was A Rose O' Plymouth Town.

The Third Annual Get-Together-Day was held on May 21, 1919. As in the case of the two former Get-Together-Days, Miss Ryan was general manager; and her experience and ability for organization has undoubtedly contributed in no small degree to the success each year. In 1916, the proceeds were about $300; in 1917, about $600; and this year, between $600 and $700. The time and energy which everyone connected with the school has spent each year in "getting together" in order to make this Day a success is much appreciated.

The following is the official report of this year's Get-Together-Day:

Table	Receipts	Expenses	Net Profits	General Expenses
Post Graduates	$36.85	$1.25	$35.60	Police officers —	$7.50
Seniors	108.67	12.49	96.18	Attendant	21.00

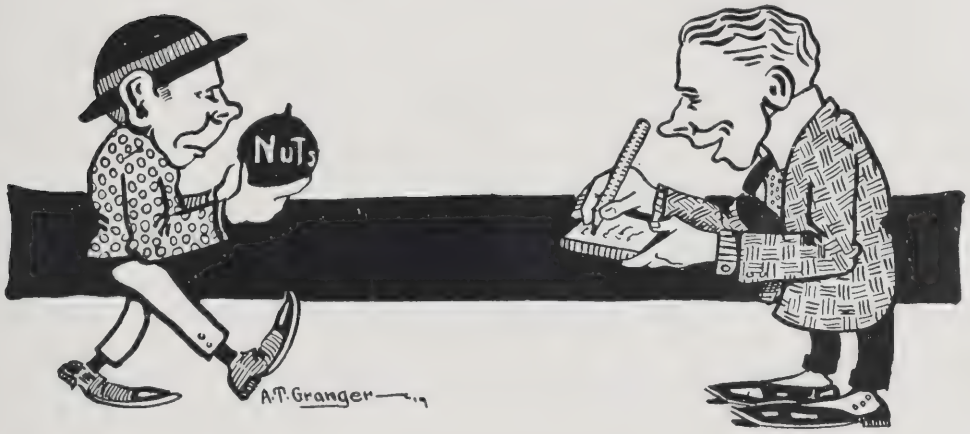
	814.22	111.64	702.58		659.68

The Annual Get-Together-Day is an institution which deserves to be continued. The money obtained is used to help support the various school activities, so that it might be said to constitute a common school-treasury. The money will be apportioned by a committee, the personnel of which is yet to be definitely decided.

Here's to the success of future Get-Together Days!

De Luminibus

By K. Rubius Vepres



BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF AUTHOR.

K. Rubius Vepres, better known as Glenn Crosley Bramble, who is the author of these sketches of the lives of our classmates, began his career in 1902. From his cradle he was regarded as an amusing child, and at C. H. L. S. his ability was rewarded by a position as editor of the Goulash column in the Cambridge Review. So great was his anxiety because he feared he was not sufficiently able to fill this position, that his mind was affected. The affection of the brain which was brought on had become so severe in 2000, when he wrote these delightful sketches, that it has been necessary to consider his humor humorous in order to humor him. He died peaceful in Waverly in 2002 after having been run over by a water-wagon. Requiescat in Pace.

AUTHOR'S PREFACE.

In the month of November 1999, I received a call from Mr. Drew, the editor of this publication, who asked if I would be so kind as to write sketches of the lives of some members of our esteemed Class to be published in the Year Book. Such a pleasurable work could hardly be declined; so, early in 2000, I spent several weeks in research both in the C. H. L. S. records and the records of the marriage license bureau. In these records I unearthed many interesting facts, heretofore unknown to the public; but, however, I have been careful to let nothing transpire which should be kept secret.

Waverlford
1st of the Month, 2000

THE BEGINNING.

1. First (but not foremost) in this bright array of luminaries stands HARLAN BETTS, the best-liked man on earth. He made friends as a mint makes dimes, and they stayed by him through all the rough stuff he ever pulled off. He soon found himself unable to control his propensity for mixing, and, when at last the only man left on earth to whom he had not been introduced was the Crown Prince of Germany, he committed suicide by dieting.

2. Josephine Bolger was a star athlete in sewing and chorus, and other such exercises. After her graduation she became an aviator mail carrier, and she carried the mails all over the country. One day, while flying from Oshkosh to Milwaukee at an altitude of 40,000 feet, a bomb concealed in her mail bag by a Bolshevik exploded with great force, wrecking the plane completely and hurling "Petey" to earth with terrific speed. As a result of this sad accident the mail was lost and Petey sprained her ankle. She has never flown since.

3. Laura Eveleth Jones, the famous editor of the Cambridge Review, first saw light on Nov. 9, 1902. At the age of three years, one month, two days, seven hours and thirteen minutes, her nurse, Miss Nolen, discovered her great editorial ability. At the age of four, this brilliant young lady edited a book entitled "Letters Between Dolls, as They Should be Written," which met with the hearty approval of Chunky. At C. H. L. S., Miss Jones' ability was rewarded by the editorship of the school paper. While in this important position, L. Eveleth became more independent of her nurse than ever before, and Bob, seeing she could no longer edit Laura, threw up that job and began on the G. A. A. After Laura's graduation she became a contributor to Snappy Stories and La Vie Parisienne, because her editorial ability was not appreciated. She is still living on her income. Barbara became editor of the G. A. A. Alumni News Letter and was killed in a duel by the editor of the Periscope in 1987. Shortly before her death, Barbara traveled with Barnum and Bailey as the only original female strong-man; she also claimed that she licked Jess Willard.

4. Frances Burnham and Rosamond Coolidge were the fastest of friends in C.H.L.S., and after their graduation their speed increased. In order never to be separated from each other they married twin brothers of high social rank. After a life of blazing social success, they wrote in collaboration a book containing an account of Boston's Inner Circle. Greatly disappointed because the book did not sell, they retired to private life in Cambridge, in the early part of 1952.

5. Alan Freeman was the most famous scholar of his time. He became Professor of Misanthropology in Harvard College and wrote numerous articles for the Atlantic Monthly. The climax of his career was reached in his argument with his distinguished colleague, Prof. Gerould, the astronomer, as to whether Boston was the center of the universe or not. He died of brain-fever in 1999, brought on by trying to catalogue his degrees.

6. Louis Tracy's name could not be found in the records of the marriage license bureau; so we must conclude that he is a bachelor. After graduating from C. H. L. S., a mania for presidency overtook him; he became president of the Alumni Association, and of the Bolsheviki Association for the Abolition of Bolshevism. In 1991, while walking through a cemetery, we discovered his gravestone with the following inscription:

HERE LIETH YE BONES
LOUIS TRACY

GIVEN UNTO OUR HANDS THIS, THE 4TH DAY OF JULY 1989,
IN WITNESS WHEREOF I HAVE HERETO SET MY HAND AND SEAL.

(Seal)

By the President,
JOHN WHITE,
Secretary

JONATHAN JONES,
President of C. H. L. S. A. A.

Tho yung, he'd lived quite long;
He died a noble death:
The poison for the vile Crown Prince
Hath us of him bereft.

A. D. July 1, 1989
Aged 87 yrs.
Let him R. I. P.

This epitaph excited our curiosity; so we searched through the records more diligently and discovered that poor Louis had eaten, by mistake, some poison intended for the Crown Prince of Germany, and had died thereafter.

7. H. MCTIGHE, was a most mysterious person. We have only his word for the authenticity of his name, and that isn't much. He always evaded telling the date of his birth, saying he was too young at the time to remember the day. Frequently he failed to get a failure-slip. This is all we know about him. He always refused to tell the date of his death, both before and after the sad event.

8. VARNEY MOSHER never did well at school because he couldn't study. Everywhere he sat down, people would talk about his bright future. Angered by this interruption of solitude, he resolved to fool them all and be a failure. He tried earnestly to fail, or to be a wicked character, but he failed at it and became rich and successful in spite of himself.

9. WESLEY NICHOLS was a famous musician. While learning to play the victrola, he broke all records. His favorite instrument was the violin, and when Wes began to play the hearer was so strongly touched that he had to so something. After playing before all the rulers of the world and being pronounced superior to Heifetz, Seidel, and the others, he was finally admitted to the second violinist's place in Clark's Jazz Band.

10. Mabelle Springer studied to be a social star and succeeded, but it was her undoing, for, while touring the world, she was passing through Turkestan, and her party was lost in the desert. Night came on, but food did not. Along came a monstrous beast — the Shah of Turkestan, in fact. The only food in sight was some of Mabelle's fudge, and after tasting it, he kidnapped her to his palace where she did nothing but cook it for two years. She was released when the Shah died of indigestion.

11. Bill and Pook Sayward, after graduating from High School, started a private academy for girls. Owing to several educational innovations, the school was crowded from the start. The innovations were: abolition of mathematics, science, languages, history, and gymnastics, and the introduction of singing, social training, fashion, and dancing. Bill personally instructed in the two former subjects and Pook in the two latter. The school was a great success. Pres. Helliot of Arvard said that words couldn't express his opinion of the school.

12. Herbert Massé, and John and Charles White organized themselves into a corporation to stop the habit of swearing. They manufactured the famous White's shoeblacking, as a side line, to support themselves. Their crusade to stop swearing succeeded entirely, and now choleric men and women say harmless things like "Smell!" "Ham!" "For keepsake!" "Sugar!" "Scissors!" "Hot coffee!" They also advocated the illustrative epithet as used by Shakspeare instead of stereotyped phrases like "boob," "nut," etc. Examples are, "red-nosed son of bow-legged jelly-fish," "blear-eyed weavil," and others. The gang made a great success. They all died wealthy.

13. Thelma Wilcox, the famous Opera star, began her career by singing "Pinafore." Soon she was the most famous singer in the country. Then along came a handsome young man who was very attentive to her. One evening he asked for a private interview for a serious discussion. Her heart palpitated with joy as she guessed his business. He came and broke the glad tidings. Would she make records exclusively for the Lictor Phonograph Company? She blushingly consented and signed the contract. And she lived on the income until her death.

14. Last but not least, comes Oliver Payne, the great doctor. He made many great discoveries among which were the following: "Alcohol is not injurious to the system if it is not drunk," "Spring can sometimes be cured by the advent of fall," and others. Dr. Payne's best treatise is "The effect of cream puffs and roast beef upon the digestive tract." He died wealthy in 1984, having more gold in his teeth than England in its treasury.

The End.
